

Dr. Phil Fox Memorial Basketball Clinics

Dr. Phil Fox Memorial Basketball Clinics are scheduled to be held in the Ontario, Canada, Rhode Island, South Carolina, and Washington, DC. Dr. Fox was a leader in the education of basketball officials throughout the world. The Fox Clinic series is limited to four clinics each year nationally and internationally. Although the clinics are established for this fall, if you are interested in scheduling a clinic in your area for fall 2005, please contact Donnie Eppley at eppleyd@iaabo.org.

“Keeping Score”

If you ask them, they all shot in the 70's. So what if they kicked the ball. The golf outing at the spring meeting in Orlando was “all for fun.” (L-R) Bernie LaFortune, Bd. 44 MA; Dick MacKenzie, Past President, Bd. 105 VT; Pete Sheehan, Past President, Bd. 95 MA; and Bill Varno, Past President, Bd. 36 NY.

Vermont Basketball Championships

IAABO Officials pictured (from L to R) Gary Lavin, Dick MacKenzie (Past President), Larry Brainard, and Joe Davine, officiated the Division I boy's basketball championship held at the University of Vermont on March 5, 2004. Dick MacKenzie, former IAABO International President, is the official scorer for the boy's state tournament at UVM as well as being the official scorer for the University of Vermont's men's basketball team.

McDonald's All-American Game

Third Annual McDonald's All-American High School Basketball Girls' Game— IAABO is most pleased to participate in this event and many other charitable events on an ongoing basis each year. IAABO salutes all officials who participated and volunteered their time to the many worthy causes we are called upon to assist. Thank you. Congratulations to the above pictured officials for a job well done. IAABO officials (shown L-R), John Lopez, Bd. 205 TX, Theresa Walloch, Bd. 4 CO and Michele Rolko, Bd. 70 PA, officiated the McDonald's All-American game held in Oklahoma City, OK, March 31, 2004. Each year, proceeds from the game benefit Ronald McDonald House Charities, and total funds raised to date have surpassed $3 million.

Board 38 NY “Hook” and “Ladder”
